The proposed Importer Security Filing (ISF) and Additional Carrier Requirements (known as "10+2" rule) were published in the Federal Register as a Notice of Proposed Rulemaking on January 2, 2008. The rule will mandate that importers of ocean cargo, or their authorized agents, supply U.S. Customs and Border Protection with 10 additional data elements and ocean carriers to supply an additional 2 data sets. This information is to be required 24 hours prior to vessel loading in the foreign port and must be filed at this time by the Automated Broker Interface. Are you prepared for this change?

Currently there are two approved electronic data interchange systems for the ISF, ABI (Automated Broker Interface) and AMS (Automated Manifest System). The additional data elements reported would further improve the ability of CBP to identify high-risk shipments so as to prevent smuggling and ensure cargo safety and security.

Join us on Thursday, October 30, 2008, where you will learn how to best prepare yourself for 10+2.
